

Mr. Charn Mayod

Awarded St. Bernard Award for Special Merit (3rd Class)

Citation:

Mr. Charn Mayod joined the University as the full-time lecturer and later the head of business and professional ethics program, office of student affairs. At present, he is the director of St. Martin Center for Professional Ethics and Service Learning.

Mr. Charn Mayod distinguishes himself through his several and varied activities that have led to improvement of the subject he teaches and supervises. He involves extensively and enthusiastically to facilitate his students to involve more in service learning. Through his teaching, he prompts his students to have a broader perspective on Thai society including rural communities and unprivileged people.

Mr. Charn Mayod also engages in several other writings to introduce the issues of ethics to the academic community. Among a few of his accomplishments are:

- Corporate responsibility
- The basis of value in a time of change
- Cultural identity or change: On the approach of development ethics
- Integrated moral education program: Concept and experience of implementation
- The impact of economy on higher education in Thailand: An analysis from the perspective of investment on education.

Through these contributions, accomplishments and other efforts, Mr. Charn Mayod is awarded St. Bernard Award for Special Merit (3rd Class).