ASSUMPTION UNIVERSITY

Historical Background

Assumption University originated from Assumption Commercial College in 1969 as an autonomous higher education institution under the name of Assumption School of Business. In 1972, with the approval of the Ministry of Education, it was officially established as Assumption Business Administration College or ABAC. In May 1975, it was accredited by the Ministry of University Affairs. In 1990, it was granted new status as "Assumption University" by the Ministry of University Affairs.

The University is a non-profit institution administered by the Brothers of St. Gabriel, a worldwide Catholic religious order, founded in France in 1705 by St. Louis Marie De Montfort, devoted to education and philanthropic activities. The congregation has been operating many educational institutions in Thailand since 1901.

The University is an international community of scholars, enlivened by Christian inspiration, engaged in the pursuit of truth and knowledge, serving the human society, especially through the creative use of interdisciplinary approaches and cybertechnology.

*It has always been my desire to build a Cathedral of Learning and to create in and around it an atmosphere that is healthy and refreshing to the active mind, intellectually stimulating and spiritually fostering and enriching; in other words, an atmosphere conducive to learning and becoming..... a complete man/woman, a new man/woman for a new millennium
 — someone imbued with a new humanism.*

Fr. Xavier

Faculty Members

Distinguished Guests and Graduates

I am greatly honoured to present to you the Report on Assumption University's Academic Development for the Academic Year 2009.

Assumption University, for 40 years, has provided quality education to Thai and international communities and the academic year 2009 was no exception. The University has promoted not only intellectual but also spiritual development to students, a manifestation of her endeavor to produce graduates who are both intellectually and morally sound with the belief that anyone is capable of pursuing knowledge and life long education.

The following is a summary report of the academic developments and events as well as statistical data of Class 38 graduates.

1. Curriculum Development

In order to fulfill the University's mission to provide quality education to Thai and international communities and provide quality human resources for the country's development, the university has offered 86 programs, comprising 39 bachelor's degree programs, 2 graduate diploma programs, 29 master's degree programs, and 15 doctoral degree programs.

2. Human Resources Development

The attainment of the University's foremost mission to be the leading international university lies in the presence of well-qualified and competent faculty with diverse cultural backgrounds. Currently, the University has 1,110 full-time faculty members performing either or both academic and administrative duties, 723 (65.14%) of whom are Thai nationals and 387 (34.86%) are foreigners who come from a total of 34 countries. Of the total, 353 are Ph.D. holders, while 611 and 146 are master's degree and bachelor's degree holders with the ratio of 32 : 55 : 13, respectively.

Furthermore, to ascertain a relentless development of the faculty members' qualifications so as to make them prominent and well-accepted scholars, the University employs both consolidated recruitment policies and committed human resource development programs whereby scholarships for higher education, seminars and trainings are regularly provided to competent and dedicated full-time faculty members and supporting staff. This academic year, 11 faculty members and 4 supporting staff have received scholarships for further education, and 158 faculty members and supporting staff were sponsored to attend academic seminars and professional trainings organized both locally and abroad.

3. Research Support and Development

The University's competitiveness lies in the continuous upgrading of the faculty's qualifications to enhance teaching and learning and provide quality education, thus, the University, through the Research Support Committee, has provided faculty members with continuous guidance and assistance through research grants and funds to support them in conducting research, writing academic articles and presenting research papers, as well as provide assistance when faculty members apply for academic titles.

In this end, the University currently has 67 full-time faculty members holding academic titles, 7 of whom are professors, 18 are associate professors, and 42 are assistant professors.

With respect to research, academic papers, text books, and paper presentations, faculty members have published 190 research and academic articles in local and international academic journals and proceedings, and presented 97 research papers in local and international conferences.

4. International Alliances Development

In the academic year 2009, the University signed 9 Memoranda of Understanding (MOU) with universities, educational institutions, and corporations from 8 countries on such agreements as student and faculty exchanges, twinning programs and general and research collaboration. These MOUs help strengthen our alliances with international universities as well as local organizations, and together with 189 existing MOUs, resulted in more student and faculty exchanges, visits and collaborations among allied universities, and enabled the University to fortify her leading position as a truly international university.

Education is the most effective means to liberate Man from ignorance and poverty.

The fundamental aim of education is to develop and integrate Man's physical, intellectual, emotional and moral faculties
to their fullest potential without extinguishing the creative spark in him. This integration processed through the proper exercise of personal freedom will ultimately lead to the formation of a complete Man, bearing in mind that Man's existence is an unending process of completion and learning.

* Man thus formed is capable of becoming responsible to himself and to the society in which he lives.

Dr. Martin

Address by the President of Assumption University of Thailand at the 38th Commencement Exercises
Queen Sirikit National Convention Center
Saturday, January 22, 2011

Chairman of the University Council, President Emeritus,
Campus Minister,
Members of AU Community,
Honored Guests,
Families and Friends of the Graduates, Alumni, and
Dear Graduates, Class XXXVIII

On behalf of the AU administration, it is my honor and privilege to welcome all who are present here today at this distinguished 2011 Commencement Exercises. And of course let me first extend my sincerest and heartiest congratulations to all our graduates whose presences here today bear witness to their academic accomplishments.

Also allow me to thank all those who have made your present achievements possible. Most obviously are your parents, whose financial sacrifices and unflinching moral support carried you through good times and bad ones. Mention must be made of your peers, who have unfailingly accompanied, consoled, mentored you, giving you first-hand advice when you needed it.

You should be grateful to the university's faculty members and supporting staff, who, in many ways, have educated you and have helped you become a new person. Perhaps at times, you might not have liked the way they worked with you. But be assured that what they did was always done with good intentions and with your best interests in mind. A CEO recently defined the role of a leader as someone who asked "people to do what they do not want to do and asking them to do it enthusiastically" (Ghosn, 2010, as cited in Dautrey, 2010, p. 1). Clearly, our faculty members have acted so to advance your education and their actions reflect their commitment, care and dedication.

One way to measure the extent of your achievements is to look back on what happened to some of your class members since you first embarked on your AU journey.

Some dropped out, some delayed graduation, taking longer to fulfill their academic requirements, and some just disappeared. But you have made it! Congratulations!

The perseverance, purposefulness, and resilience which you have had to summon at times to reach this point will serve you well in the future, a future filled with opportunities and challenges. In this respect, what is awaiting you is no different from what faced previous graduates. Like them, you will be confronted with obstacles, problems, and crises. And like them, you also undoubtedly will encounter positive circumstances and be blessed with lucky turns of events. What is constantly changing, however, is the nature and magnitude and complexity of the challenges and opportunities ahead of you.

What Are the Challenges Facing You Today?

We have just entered the second decade of the 21st century. The first one brought its share of fateful events, some man-made, some caused by nature. Such defining moments are part of the stark reality facing you and will help shape your future.

Globally, you have witnessed food scarcity, energy depletion, environmental disregard and its climate change and growing natural catastrophes; you have seen excesses result in a near-collapse of the financial system. The financial tremors resulting from the US-induced sub-prime crisis can still be felt in many parts of the world and there are predictions that warn us of the possibility of another slump. The recovery remains fragile and you will thus face uncertainties as you begin careers that may be marked in their early stages by deepening afflictions.

Domestically, internal political conflicts remain a threat to the peace and development of the country. In addition, the rapid appreciation of the baht against the US dollar over the past few months, as well as the flashfloods that wrecked havoc on many parts of the country, particularly in the Northeast, continue to have an impact on the economy and thus on well-being of many of our citizens. And as the ASEAN Economic Community 2015 looms, regional competition is intensifying. Although this may be cold comfort to you, these problems, however, are not specific to Thailand.

Take China. In 2009, 6.1 million students who graduated from China's universities, already faced a formidable challenge as they competed for jobs during an economic downturn. By 2011, state sources predict that the number of Chinese university graduates will reach a staggering 7.6 million each year. Creating the conditions for them to find jobs has become a top priority for the Chinese government. In the USA, about 2.4 million students will graduate with bachelor's and associate degrees as part of the Class of 2010 (Petrecca, 2010). Given the sluggish recovery there, their attempt to find employment promises to be quite challenging, all the more as the world's economic epicenter gradually moves eastward.

Such developments will be likely to have an impact on your professional lives. When you first joined AU, most of you probably expected to land great jobs right after graduating, possibly with a high salary and the prospect of an ever-better life thereafter. Many predictions suggest trends that will make this difficult, as you compete head-to-head, not only with your fellow graduates, but also with laid-off workers, financially-strapped retirees, and those 2008 and 2009 graduates who have not yet found employment.

Many of you might be thinking that in graduating during such seemingly inauspicious times, is a mark of your bad luck. But I want to emphasize that it is not so!

You must take the larger picture. Humanity has been plagued by both natural and man-made disasters from time immemorial. Moreover, adversity brings opportunities. First and foremost, the opportunity to learn from what has happened in the past. You must therefore creatively reflect on what can be learned from the past, how to use that knowledge to meet today's challenging circumstances. You must think hard about how to remedy today's ills.

There is obviously no short, easy, and ready answer to this. What is clear, though, is that poverty, conflicts, global warming, economic crises, migration, pandemics, terrorism, international crimes and many other issues have consequences that cannot be managed at an individual level. They require global strategies and concerted efforts. Do not think that all these problems can be solved overnight. This, however, is not to say that nothing can be done at a personal level. On the contrary!

As you leave academic life and face the world you must make sure to use what you have learned both within and outside the classroom. No matter where you come from you must play your part in the solution to the myriad of problems, even if that part seems small to you. These will vary from country to country. In Thailand, for example, the "6 days, 63 Million Opinions" survey of the country conducted by the National Statistical Institute identified the main issues that must be tackled to alleviate economic hardship, solving political problems, ending corruption and improving the quality of life.

As you will have realized by now, my purpose today is not to share a few hints about how to get a job or become rich, but to deepen your understanding of the world, to serve the cause of wisdom, and to inspire you to respond creatively to the many problems that the world faces. And, this goes well beyond the workplace. So, allow me to briefly reflect on your life outside the office.

Life Outside Work

Even though you will spend much of your days at work, what you bring to the workplace is largely shaped by your attitude outside the office. The following guiding principles in life are recommended:

1. Be ethical: Ethical behavior is fundamental to long-term success in life as well as in business. Be firm, consistent, honest and fair in your dealings! Do not bow to greed! Act out of integrity! Develop a code of conduct that spells out the principles of ethical behavior you expect others to have in their dealings with you and adhere to it.

2. Be disciplined: Self-discipline is one of the keys to personal greatness. With self-discipline, the average person can rise as far as and as fast as his or her talents and intelligence will allow. But without self-discipline, a person will seldom rise above mediocrity. Self-discipline gives control over your life and makes your goals attainable. It is essential to your professional life.

3. Cultivate friendship: It's challenging to make friends and equally challenging to keep them. Your friends become your second family. There are things in life that can only be shared with our closest friends. Friends are part of your support system.

4. Share and help others: One of the key components of success is our inclination to apply all our talents to the best of our ability and share them with others, at work, in our community, and with friends and neighbors. Develop a belief in giving back to others! See the good in others and learn to give and do it gladly! Learning to share your time and resources with others will help you reach your full potential as a truly caring and considerate human being.

5. Be true to yourself: Being true to your values and beliefs is critical to your happiness and well-being and to facilitating the transformations you will undergo during life. Have confidence in yourself, in your competencies and capabilities and believe that who you are does indeed make a difference!

6. Strive for balance: Keep your work and personal life in balance! You must make time for your family and guard your personal time no matter what. Too many activities will deplete you and weaken your relationships. Understandably, there are times when you have to put the institution ahead of your personal life. A work/life balance, however, does not mean being in perfect balance all the time. What matters is that you recognize when you are out of balance and restore it.

These Principles Are Grounds for Optimism

Although I started this speech on a somewhat pessimistic note, outlining the afflictions of the past decade, there are also clear reasons to remain hopeful; the main one being you and your resolve to be ethical, self-disciplined, true to yourself, generous and considerate. AU has provided you with good moral and intellectual foundations on which to build. Make the most of them. This is where your ability, as an individual, to make the world a better place comes in and this is what I want you to remember from this graduation.

This will also make your life meaningful. The writer Mitch Albom in Tuesdays with Morrie well captures the essence of my message to you:

So many people walk around with a meaningless life. They seem half-asleep, even when they are busy doing things they think are important. This is because they are chasing the wrong things. The way you get meaning into your life is to devote yourself to loving others, devote yourself to creating something that gives you purpose and meaning. (Albom, 1997, p. 43)

Another reason to remain confident in the future is that while human beings may have a destructive streak to them, they are also capable of altruism, self-abnegation, courage and excellence. Examples abound. The successful conclusion to the operation to retrieve 33 trapped miners from the collapsed San Jose gold and copper mine, in Chile is one; the building of a seven billion euro tunnel the world's largest, from the Italian city of Milan to Zurich is another. Closer to home I can point out, for example to the 57 km. high-speed rail link between the cantons of Bern and Valais, which will open in 2017. Each of these illustrates human greatness as exemplified in our great history of technological breakthroughs that attest to mankind's greatness.

Such conquests, however, often followed long periods of trial and error and failures. Likewise, in the course of your life; there will be times when you will do well, and times when you will fail. But neither your doing well nor your failing are the yardsticks by which success should be measured. If you fail, then start over again. Keep on trying! And be proud of yourself through every step of the way! Who you are does make a difference and I want you to know that.

Recall the quotation inscribed on the wall in the hall of the John Paul II gymnasium at Suvarnabhumi campus: "the purpose of sport is not to win but to participate and educate ...[it] should serve as an inspiration to you to struggle to live on and move ahead in life." That says it all.

Another reason yet for you to look ahead with optimism is the English education you have received at AU. A recent Bangkok Post article, addressing the short supply of qualified candidates in 2011, states in part: "Especially short in supply are candidates with good English-language ability." (Prachyakorn, 2010, p. B2). This is no doubt good news for you! But, this is also a reminder of the need for you to keep developing your knowledge – and improving your linguistic skills – because jobs are becoming more temporary. And even if you keep the same job throughout your career, new circumstances will keep arising, requiring a capacity to "learn to learn." This will require, as already noted, having self-discipline and moral and intellectual integrity.

Dear Graduates:

Two quick points before closing this address! First, you will no longer show up for class. But even though your life will no longer revolve around AU, you will still be part of it. And, as soon-to-be alumni and members of the AU family, your role is to help to chart the future of AU and be part of its transformation as a sustainable institution.

Working as a team in an "esprit de corps," establishing participative channels for all of you to share your thoughts and ideas is precisely what last year's celebrations marking AU 40th anniversary were about. As all of us put our ideas together, we will take a leap into the future together certain to achieve a truly extraordinary 5th decade of excellence and beyond. *

Second, in addition to being an AU team member, each of you has also now become an AU ambassador to the world. So, please behave accordingly and becomingly and do come back to your alma mater whenever you can!

Congratulations and best wishes to all of you once again! May God bless you and guide you in all your undertakings!

Closing Prayer of Blessing

Lord, we celebrate this day with joy, satisfaction, and thanksgiving for your marvelous deeds and gracious gifts-for all the good you have given us.

When our goals seemed unattainable, you extended your hand and walked with us.

When we lacked understanding, you filled us with knowledge and wisdom.

When we doubted ourselves, you filled us with hope.

When we were confused and uncertain, you filled us with your love.

Today, Lord, as we prepare for a new chapter in our life's story, we realize in a special way the frailty of human purpose and the power of human love.

We pray that you continue to walk with us and be an intimate part of our continuing story, as we bring your gifts to all your people.

Help us to hear the words you want us to hear.

Enable us to use our hearts and minds, talents and abilities to serve as you served.

Stay with us in our struggles to understand, in our moments of success and in our times of loss and failure.

Strengthen us to use our freedoms wisely, to make choices that are consistent with your ways and our AU values.

Bring the best in us to life and make our work your song.

Use our minds to seek truth; teach us to speak the truth clearly and boldly.

Use our lives to spread joy and to contribute to the building of your community on earth.

God of all, continue to shower us with your many kindnesses; grant peace to the world, and keep us in your eternal protection.

Amen.
