Sala Jaturatham

The Pavilion of Four Virtues is so named by virtue of being inscribed on its upper part with the words<sup>3</sup> "Prudence; Justice; Fortitude; Temperance." These were cardinal virtues of great kings and perfect men in ancient Greek and Roman times. It is intended to edify and infuse into the students these qualities which would mould them to perfection. This imposing stone structure has arched doorways marked on each of its four sides by twin Roman columns. Perched on the corner of the incoming road, it directly overlooks an island of trees in the big pond. It is a nice breezy place to view the water mirroring the "university in a park," the theme created by Bro. Martin.
