

ABSTRACT

The information system analysis project is about analyzing the current system, structuring & organizing data in aspect of designing and implementation the data process system of Maintenance and Repairing System in TMS Co., Ltd. And also present the existing function of each department of SCT.

Computer is a key factor of almost all business in Thailand. Accordingly the new computer program continues developing to be suitable for all businesses and try to reduce the complicated function for users. This project is designed in order to analyze the system and find out the effective solution to develop the systems. This project is designed in order to analyze and design the system and find out the effective way.

The software development project analyze the current system, structuring & organizing data in aspect of designing and implementation of the data process of Maintenance and Repairing System process in TMS Co., Ltd. It also presents the function of each department of TMS and alternative solution to implement the new system more effectively and efficiently.

This project will be useful for the company and can help them work more efficiently, effectively and accurately.