ABSTRACT

This is system development project for network vendor company here in call Sales and Purchase Information System for a Computer Network Vendor Company. The company provides total solution in networking for Japanese customer especially in the manufacturing and financial firm.

The project present analysis and design phase which cover problems definition, study plan, user requirements and understanding of existing system to propose the computerize Sales and Purchase Information System. It also included the design of the new computerize system (Database Design, Screen Design, and Report Design) and cost/benefit analysis.

This report is intended to demonstrate that the proposed system will reduce duplicate work, generate automatically report for management and provide effective methods to tackle the problems in existing system. In this project, Microsoft Access 2.0 for Windows 3.11 is chosen as an implement application on the database.