

ABSTRACT

This study covers the analysis, design and implementation of a computer information system of the PACIFIC INSURANCE CO., LTD. The scope of the project concerned with the major parts of the Motor Insurance Information System.

This study uses structured analysis and design techniques to document all activities. Firstly the existing system is studied and analysed, problems are identified, the new system is designed to solve or minimize the problems and finally, testing and implementing are carried out.

The file structure is designed based on RDB file with PRIME machine. A menu driven and form filling screens are designed to suit the wide range of users.