LABOUR CONQUERS ALL THINGS

Education is the most effective means to liberate Man from ignorance and poverty.

The fundamental aim of education is to develop and integrate Man's physical,
intellectual, emotional and moral faculties
to their fullest potential without extinguishing
the creative spark in him. This integration processed through the proper exercise of personal freedom will ultimately lead to the formation of a complete Man, bearing in mind that Man's existence is an unending process of completion and learning.

A Man thus formed is capable of becoming responsible to himself and to the society in which he lives.

It is a great honour to present to you this Report on Assumption University's Academic Development for the Year 2006.

Academic year 2006, the 37th year of the University's provision of quality education to the Thai and international communities, marks yet another successful year of Assumption University's continuous and sustainable development and growth, a palpable manifestation of the University's assiduous endeavor to maintain her leading position as an institution for knowledge.

The following is a summary report of these developments and events. It also includes statistical data on the Graduates of Class 35.

1. Curriculum Development

For Academic Year 2006, in the pursuance of her mission to fulfill the need for quality education of Thai and International communities, and also to strengthen the country's human resource skills, the university has offered 98 programs which comprise 41 undergraduate programs, 2 certificate programs, 42 master programs, and 13 doctoral programs. Of these, 7 are newly developed programs, 18 are modified, and 10 are in the process of applying for accreditation. In addition, the University, with her commitment to enhancing the emotional growth of Thai youths, has also started up the School of Music.

2. Human Resources Development

As the ability to attain her essential mission as a leading international university lies in the adequacy of well-qualified and competent faculty with cultural diversity, the university currently has 1,105 full-time faculty members performing either or both academic and administrative duties, 750 (67.87%) of whom are Thai nationals and 355 (32.13%) are foreigners who come from a total of 36 countries. Of the total, 388 are Ph.D. holders, while 586 and 131 are master degree and bachelor degree holders with the ratio of 35 : 53 : 12, respectively.

Furthermore, to ascertain that her faculty members' qualifications are at the forefront, the University employs both rigid recruitment policies and committed human resource development programs whereby scholarships for higher education, seminars and trainings are regularly provided to competent and dedicated full-time faculty members and supporting staff. This academic year, 24 faculty members and 5 supporting staff have received scholarships for further education, and 202 and 48 faculty members and supporting staff were sponsored to attend academic seminars and professional training organized both locally and abroad.

3. Research Support and Development

As part of her strength lies in the continuous development of faculty members' qualifications that would entail the better teaching and learning and an overall enhancement in the quality of education, the University has set up a Research Support Committee as well as granted research funds to facilitate faculty members in conducting research, producing academic articles, and applying for academic titles. In this end, the University currently has 51 full-time faculty members holding academic titles, 4 of whom are full professors, 11 are associate professors, and 36 are assistant professors. Of these, 3 have been conferred associate professorship and 5 assistant professorship titles, respectively in academic year 2006.

Address by the President
35th Commencement Exercises
At Queen Sirikit National Convention Center (QSNCC)
On January 19, 2008

Chairman of the University Council,

President Emeritus,

The Campus Minister,

Members of AU Community,

Honored Guests,

Parents, Relatives and Friends, and

Dear Graduates:

Let me begin by thanking our honored guests, chairman of the University Council, administrators, faculty and staff who are present here today to witness and to honor the achievement and excellence of our graduates, Class XXXV.

Every time I attend an Assumption University graduation ceremony, my heart is filled with happiness and joy because you are graduating. You have invested a great deal of time and energy in your program, you have paid your fees and followed the rules, and here you are - you have made it! Please let me be the first to congratulate you on your wonderful achievement.

My joy is always tempered with a bit of anxiety, however, because you leave us to enter the professional arena, where you will face all the difficulties of our complex world. Your degree puts you on the way to success, but it cannot guarantee success. Opportunities will abound, but unexpected difficulties will surely arise.

What is Success?

Each of you must define success in your own terms. Getting a degree is just the first step, but you and your families certainly rejoice in this early success.

Your next step will be getting a good job or starting a new business. It will take time for you to climb the organizational ladder or build your business, because as a newcomer, you will be an unknown quantity. As you build a record of small successes, people will appreciate your fine education and your unique combination of creativity, energy and imagination, and you will eventually be appreciated as a valued asset in the workplace. If you begin well, you have already achieved an important part of success.

Your values are well balanced and you know that a good income and higher position do not mean everything in life. Personal satisfaction at work will depend on your willingness to deal with a variety of bosses and peers; some will welcome you, some will not. Your success in these situations depends on your ability to be a good team player.

A Holistic Approach to Education

Let us pause a moment to reflect on the many ways AU has prepared you for success. Obviously, you have gained a high degree of knowledge and skill in your field, as you could at other universities, but during your first orientation, I explained to you the unique value of our programs: AU offers you A Holistic Approach to Education. We see you as a whole person, and our program was designed to assure you develop into a complete and well-functioning, fully integrated person. Our main concern was to see you develop to your fullest potential so you could pursue a variety of avenues to success in all aspects of life.

Teilhard de Chardin, the Jesuit philosopher, believed that humans are the only animals on the planet that can both observe and influence their own evolution. Let us reflect on that, for your school years have been a period of enormous personal evolution for you, as your character developed rapidly from a lower, more commonplace state to a higher state of consciousness and your confidence in your personal skills and talents expanded. Let us look at the consequences of this rapid development.

An AU Graduate in the Information Age

You have achieved your degree in a society that has rapidly evolved from an agrarian to an industrial economy and then into a significant player in the data-hungry information age where knowledge drives economic growth and development. Universities are the factories producing that knowledge, and serving as a vehicle of its dissemination. They also produce highly educated graduates who teach the average citizens to put all this information to use for the common good of all.

You are fortunate to have attended a school that emphasizes also hard work and social responsibility among others. You have absorbed a great deal of information, but mere information has no meaning when removed from its social context. Unfortunately, nowadays, there are educational institutions and professors in them dedicated only to delivering more and more data and training students in more and more ways of processing that data, without regard to the effect this narrow approach has on society as a whole, and the way such data can be used in irresponsible ways that negatively impact people and the planet itself. They do not teach social responsibility.

We attempt to go beyond Aristotle, who valued education highly, and insisted that a well-educated philosopher would make the best kind of ruler. His ancient ideas about education were appropriate for a simple, homogeneous, and tiny population, but did not include values vitally important in today's complex society, such as equality, spirituality, personal identity, protection of the environment and social tolerance. These values can infuse purpose and meaning into lives lived in enormous, heterogeneous and competitive modern societies. Our university works hard to teach you and help you develop your own sense of social responsibility.

What is Social Responsibility?

Social responsibility is a moral quality or virtue possessed by an entity such as a government, corporation, organization or individual that leads the individual or group to act in a rational, reasonable, and humane way toward others, whether they are individuals, groups, or even whole nations. If you are socially responsible, your decisions are carefully considered based on the needs and values of others. You make decisions and perform actions as an individual or as part of a larger body, and those you care about will include not only the people sharing the planet with you now, but also the children destined to follow in the remainder of this century and beyond, for whom we are morally bound to leave an orderly society and a beautiful, clean, and well-balanced home planet.

Social Responsibility: A Business Standard

A major ethical movement begun in Rio in 1992 by Stephan Schmidheiny has suddenly developed into a major ethical movement in businesses worldwide, and businesses are now evaluated in terms of their Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR). There is no single, commonly accepted definition of corporate social responsibility, but it generally refers to decision making linked to ethical values, compliance with legal requirements, and respect for people, communities and the environment.

To be considered socially responsible, a company would have to embody the following principles:

- It would treat employees fairly and equitably.
- It would operate ethically and with integrity.
- It would respect basic human rights.
- It would effectively sustain the environment for future generations, and
- It would be a caring neighbor in the community.

Thailand, like every other country, is facing serious challenges in achieving these goals as a nation, and its businesses rank from near the top to near the bottom in CSR quality. It is safe to assume that those of you from foreign lands will find a similar situation when you return home.

Though these problems are listed separately here, they are interconnected and form one single, big problem, which is, How can we assure that as we do business, no nation, company, organization or individual acts selfishly with regard to others living now or in the future, and no person or group is victimized by another.

Social Responsibility in Your New Life

As graduates, I'm sure most of you place a high value on wealth and the ownership of goods and property. This is a strong motivator, and you have been putting off that nice house, financial security, and long-awaited purchases all through your years of study. Your individualism is clearly central in this kind of feeling, and it is a natural instinct. Yet while we wish you well in your pursuit of your material goals, we strongly encourage you to pursue them in a socially responsible manner. Join a socially responsible agency or company, or practice your own profession, or create your own business, with social responsibility as your hallmark.

In the long run, your personal security and safety depends on moral people exercising social responsibility at every level. That is what assures your society's stability, so you have everything to gain and nothing to lose if you are socially responsible.

The Role of Education: Planned by Assumption University

Here at AU, you became aware of current events and social problems. We provided you with pertinent information and gave you the opportunity to discuss social issues among yourselves and reflect upon them personally and as a group. At the same time, we required you to visit various problem areas, in person or via information technology, and we brought in guest speakers to relate their first-hand experiences.

We steadfastly hold to this approach to real world issues, and maintain it to be one of our teaching-learning methodologies. Through this contact with real world situation you will be aware of its importance and try to internalize and make it a part of your life. As time passes, a more holistic, more humane, and more socially responsible philosophy must permeate society. This makes all we do to teach social responsibility more and more relevant to the common good.

The Long-Range Importance of Our Social Responsibilities

I encourage all of you to accept the fact that your quality of life as well as the welfare of the various societies dwelling on this planet will depend heavily on the state of its ecosystems, and I appeal to you to work cooperatively to keep the social and environmental systems in good shape. The recent meetings in Bali were crucial to the survival of life as we know it on this planet, and further discussion will continue until at least 2009. We are at a critical moment in human history, and unflinching realism and social responsibility are our only defense against the impending dangers human populations will encounter.

Rewards of Involvement

Your mature participation in developing, maintaining and governing your community will be satisfying. It will provide you with a major source of life purpose, self-esteem and enjoyment. It will provide you with strong motivation and fill you with joy. Socially responsible citizens living on a well-balanced planet are the ultimate answer to all our ills.

Here are my five recommendations for you as graduates of Assumption University:

1. Behave well and be a good citizen; this is the first thing you can do to create a better society and prepare for global change.
2. Use your knowledge and training obtained from AU to become an active citizen. Be aware of and responsible in dealing with public issues.
3. Commit yourself to continuing your personal moral formation; it is a lifelong process.
4. Think of ways you can best work against the heavy odds and begin to build a just and sustainable society.
5. Move beyond simple personal responsibility to a mature social responsibility.

Dear Graduates:

Please reflect on how you can use your everyday activities to nurture your social responsibility:

- Discuss the moral values embedded in every day life with a kind and wholesome friend who has a positive outlook.
- Examine your real life situations, and in particular the opportunities and difficulties you are facing in your work setting or in your family, to discover the qualities that support your social structure.
- Analyze your responsibilities in specific situations as you assume the responsibilities of everyday life.

This work requires patience and a long-range view of the change process. However, the slow development and occasional lapses are an integral part of the actual issues you have to deal with.

Responsibility in any aspect of living and learning is always only a partial success. Life is a journey that is never complete; the virtue is in the striving much more than in the achievement. What matters most is the direction of the journey, a journey towards the successful fulfillment of your own human potential.

Now, at last, this traditional commencement address is nearly finished, so let me close by repeating my expression of happiness, joy, and excitement, tempered with a measure of anxiety, as you receive your diploma and leave this hall and to embark on what I know will be a challenging yet thrilling adventure. Remember that the price of success is hard work, dedication to the job at hand, and the determination that whether we win or lose, we have applied the best of ourselves to the task at hand.

On behalf of the university and together with our honored guests, I would like to join your parents, family members, and friends in congratulating you once again on your achievement.

I wish you every success in life. May God bless you with peace, happiness, and prosperity always!

CLOSING PRAYER OF BLESSING

Lord, we celebrate this day with joy, satisfaction, and thanksgiving for your marvelous deeds and gracious gifts-for all the good you have given us.

When our goals seemed unattainable, you extended your hand and walked with us.

When we lacked understanding, you filled us with knowledge and wisdom.

When we doubted ourselves, you filled us with hope.

When we were confused and uncertain, you filled us with your love.

Today, Lord, as we prepare for a new chapter in our life's story, we realize in a special way the frailty of human purpose and the power of human love.

We pray that you continue to walk with us and be an intimate part of our continuing story, as we bring your gifts to all your people.

Help us to hear the words you want us to hear.

Enable us to use our hearts and minds, talents and abilities to serve as you served.

Stay with us in our struggles to understand, in our moments of success and in our times of loss and failure.

Strengthen us to use our freedoms wisely; to make choices that are consistent with your ways and our AU values.

Bring the best in us to life and make our work your song.

Use our minds to seek truth; teach us to speak the truth clearly and boldly.

Use our lives to spread joy and to contribute to the building of your community on earth.

God of all, continue to shower us with your many kindnesses; grant peace to the world, and keep us in your eternal protection.

Amen.
