This study is made up of Quantitative Research by using the approach of Documentary Research. After all the information was gathered, the method of Content Analysis from the legal statues and all the information mentioned above was then analyzed. The explanation and reasons, within the concept and assumption to prove the assumption set up, were found out to respond the incidents. On study, the documents mentioned above were analyzed so that the legal problems of the foreigner's entrepreneurship especially telecommunication business as well as the suitable amendment were found out. To make it more appropriate, the foreign approaches were then used as a proposal.

It is found from the study that the legal measures to control the foreign investment telecommunication business in Thailand lacks of the clarity and certainty. There is a measure for the National Telecommunication Affair Committee to determine a provision to forbid a juristic person who asks for a permit to do telecommunication business is not dominated. However, such a measure was determined to solve extempore problem and to limit the right without the Act scrutinized by the legislative parliament and complete interpretation of the telecommunication business according to the law about the foreigner's entrepreneurship.

Therefore, to protect the telecommunication business from being dominated by foreigners, the definitions of foreigners should be determined in the Act about telecommunication affair entrepreneurship clearly including the proportion of shareholding both directly and indirectly. The administration power and right to vote should be considered as well.
