

ABSTRACT

This project is about PAWS of Bangkok which is a street cat foundation in Bangkok. There are around ten to fifteen finished organizations in Thailand, and around five of them in Bangkok. And PAWS is one of them. The owner of this foundation is an American woman and her name is Amy. She has three purpose with her foundation. First they want to educate people love their cats and protect street cats. And second they try to make the community cats healthier and the group of street cats smaller by doing the surgery to birth control. The at last they will find some people to adopt their cats.

My purpose of this project is to find a different way to promote the Pets Animal Welfare Society: Paws of Bangkok. And use my photos in order to develop the emotional attach to street cats. Then to evoke people to consider and conserve stray cats.

I expect that my thesis project will influence more people to care for street cats and be one to help the foundation to save street cats.
