

ABSTRACT

In today's world, internet became one of the most important media which can reach large number of potential audiences at low cost. A lot of people nowadays can easily seeking for what they want through the internet. And it look like that in the near future the internet will be even more significant to the life style of people.

Therefore web designing interested me as it can be the medium that is important and required lesser resources to create except the creative ideas, skills, and efforts to do which is very challenging and interesting.

Also, the trend of hi-speed internet and broadband is growing, therefore now we are not just presenting the information in old text and image style anymore, but also, animation, sound, and interactive contents.

With all these reasons, even though I know there will be obstacles regarding difficulty in learning to do new things I never tried, web design is still very interesting and challenging to me. Therefore I chose to do this project for my workshop and I have done everything at my best.
