

THE ATTITUDE TOWARDS FAMILY, SEX, INTERPERSONAL
RELATIONSHIP AND SELF CONCEPT OF THE SELECTED HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS IN BANGKOK METROPOLIS.

ACHAREEYA CHUMPOL

114 PAGES

17 NOVEMBER 2000

ABSTRACT

The purpose of this research was to study the attitudes towards family, sex, Interpersonal relationship and self concept of the selected high school students in Bangkok Metropolis. It also examined the differences in attitude related to gender, class level, and academic achievement.

The Sample group was a 100 high school students from the selected high school in Bangkok Metropolis which was Samsen Wittayalai School. The instrument utilized was The Sacks Sentence Completion test. (SSCT)

The data were analyzed by using T-test, F-test one way analysis variance. The findings suggested that :

1. The high school students have mildly emotional disturbed into attitude areas namely : Family and Self-Concept.
2. There was a statistical significant difference at .05 level between male and female student in two attitude areas. (Family and Interpersonal Relationship attitude area).

3. There was a statistical significant difference at .05 level among class level (Mathayom Suksa 4, Mathayom Suksa 5 and Mathayom Suksa 6) in one attitude area (Family Attitude area)
4. There was a statistical significant difference at .05 level among grade point average in one attitude area (Family Attitude area)

